

I don't maintain voice mail to be used by telemarketers. It's my own, personal system and it will be a huge invasion of my private space if telemarketers are jamming it with junk messages. Whether or not a call is ringless makes no difference. With a ringed call, I can simply not answer. With ringless messaging, I'm stuck with their uninvited, unwelcome nuisance messages filling up my space for legitimate messages (i.e. non-marketing).